APOLLO ASSET-BACKED FINANCE FUND

QUARTERLY REPORT TO INVESTORS

QUARTER ENDED DECEMBER 31, 2025

INST-20260224-5232088-16540856

The ABF Fund in the Fourth Quarter[1]

Credit markets and the broader US economy again defied expectations in 2025. Episodes of tariff-driven volatility, geopolitical tension, and fiscal debate created short-lived disruptions, with Liberation Day marking the most acute test of market resilience. Yet each episode proved transitory as policy moderation and resilient growth quickly restored stability, allowing risk assets to absorb shocks.

Fourth quarter returns across asset classes reflect the continuity of these themes. The US high yield and investment grade indices notched 1.35% and 0.77% fourth-quarter returns, respectively, pushing full year performance in each market to around 8%. However, there were notable signs of dispersion across the macro, technology and credit landscapes.

On the macro front, data remained mixed. Solid US economic growth of 4.3% in the third quarter—its fastest pace in two years—was tempered by a softening US labor market which has seen unemployment creep higher and new job creation stall over the past few quarters. The Fed's response clearly reflected these conflicting signals: The central bank delivered two rate cuts over the quarter and paused its balance sheet runoff but stopped short of an aggressive easing cycle as inflation remained above its 2% target.

The AI narrative also evolved in important ways during the quarter. Momentum accelerated in October, reinforcing artificial intelligence as a key driver of capital investment and market performance. As the quarter progressed, investors questioned how much of the sector's gains were already embedded in valuations, with several high-profile names trading at levels that were compared to periods of exuberance. Capital spending on data centers, semiconductors, and cloud infrastructure continued at a rapid pace, but limited visibility into near-term monetization raised concerns that investment intensity was running ahead of returns.

The M&A market, in contrast, suffered no such ambiguity. The rebound in deal activity that began in the third quarter carried through year-end, marking a decisive return of M&A as financing conditions stabilized, and confidence improved. North American transaction volumes rose to $2.4 trillion in 2025, the highest level since 2021 and the second-highest year on record.

The unevenness in the macro data and AI narrative was also evident in the credit markets. While the high yield and leveraged loan markets posted respectable returns throughout 2025, pockets of underperformance were evident. CCC-rated high yield underperformed the broader high yield market by 180 basis points and 200 basis points, in the fourth quarter and full year, respectively, as high interest rates, deteriorating credit metrics and continued liability management activity pressured lower-rated structures.

This environment—supportive, but increasingly selective—extended directly into asset-backed finance.

Asset-backed spreads concluded 2025 at or near post-GFC tights with many sub-pillars trading in the 0–25th percentile of their historical ranges. Asset pricing at the end of the quarter reflected strong technicals, abundant liquidity, and sustained institutional risk appetite. Investment grade CLO liabilities finished the year near post-crisis tights, supported by persistent demand from banks, insurers, and structured credit funds, while mezzanine and subordinate tranches saw order books multiple times oversubscribed and transactions clearing with little to no new-issue concession. A similar dynamic was evident across conduit CMBS and consumer ABS, where spreads compressed to the tight end of post-GFC distributions despite ongoing property-level and collateral-specific dispersion. Issuance volumes underscored both the durability of demand and the market's capacity to absorb supply at elevated valuations, with total ABS issuance of $354 billion in 2025, up approximately 7% year over year, non-agency CMBS rising 41% to $156 billion, and CLO issuance reaching $663 billion, roughly 15% higher year over year.[2] Looking ahead, 2026 issuance is projected to exceed 2025 levels across most major securitized sectors, leaving the asset-backed markets characterized by historically tight spreads, aggressive primary clearing levels, and robust demand across the capital structure.

Against this backdrop, the Fund delivered steady performance while maintaining a conservative risk posture. As of December 31st, the portfolio carried a weighted average spread of approximately 469 basis points[3], with roughly 82% allocated to investment grade and IG-like assets and minimal use of leverage. Duration remained short, with a 1.4-year interest rate duration, preserving flexibility in a potentially shifting rate environment. The Fund returned 1.36%[4] net for the quarter and has not experienced a down month or a negative credit-related loss on any position since inception in October 2023. Performance contribution was led by the Financial assets and Residential Mortgage pillars.

Looking through the Fund's key asset-backed pillars, several themes stood out across the portfolio. In Hard Assets, capital continued to concentrate around AI-related infrastructure, where Apollo-managed Vehicles led a $3.5 billion capital solution supporting the acquisition and lease of data center compute infrastructure to a subsidiary of xAI (see Q4 Deal Highlights below). At the same time, the portfolio emphasized diversification into asset classes more structurally insulated from the AI build-out, which we believe reflects both the scale of opportunity in AI-linked assets and the importance of maintaining selectivity.

Within Capital Solutions, institutional NAV financing remained a key area of activity. The platform originated more than $18 billion in 2025, including a $2.5 billion fourth-quarter transaction for a diversified asset manager with a large, highly diversified balance sheet. The proceeds from the loan were used to refinance an existing facility and to allow the manager to make new investments. These deals reflected our ability to structure and lead large, bespoke financings, which has generally exhibited stronger returns relative to more commoditized markets.

In Consumer Finance, deployments remained selective and focused on use-case loans to prime and super-prime borrowers with strong credit profiles and meaningful home equity. Additionally, we have begun to see value in the subprime auto sector where we have been able to source whole loan pools while utilizing attractive bank financing to create downside protected structures that provide incremental spread in an otherwise historically tight environment. We began to diversify the Fund's commercial real estate exposure away from primarily CRE CLOs to also include direct CRE Loans where we are able to purchase the raw asset and finance the entire pool using attractive bank financing. In the Residential Mortgage Pillar, the Fund has selectively increased Australian RML exposure, where recently acquired portfolios exhibit conservative weighted-average LTVs in the low-70% range, high borrower quality, and structural protections in addition to a structural housing undersupply backdrop. We have also complemented this allocation with high quality U.S. second-lien mortgage credit, where our exposure is to fully underwritten high FICO borrowers and low loan-to-values.

Q4 2025 Deal Highlights[5]

- Valor

During the quarter, Apollo led a large-scale asset-backed financing supporting the lease of advanced compute infrastructure for artificial intelligence applications. We were introduced to Valor through Apollo-managed Vehicles' participation in xAI's ~$5 billion debt financing in June, where we were a lead investor. During that process, xAI outlined plans for billions in additional financing to fund GPU purchases through a separate, dedicated vehicle that would sit outside of xAI's capital structure. Valor's approach represented a departure from prior AI infrastructure financings with its triple-net GPU lease structure in which xAI, rather than Valor, is required to secure power and operate the equipment during the lease term. This contrasts with recent neocloud financings, where lenders are exposed to execution risk by the borrower, who must meet stringent uptime requirements to avoid revenue credits and, in extreme cases, even lease termination. In addition to the GPU collateral, the Fund is expected to benefit from what we view as enhanced xAI counterparty risk through an xAI guarantee. We believe this distinction matters: It shifts risk away from servicing and execution toward asset value and counterparty quality—factors that in our view are more measurable and more appropriately priced in a credit instrument. The transaction consisted of a $3.5 billion first-lien unitranche facility provided to a special purpose vehicle sponsored by Valor Equity Partners, which financed a five-year lease of approximately 111,000 NVIDIA GPUs to a subsidiary of xAI. Given the rapid depreciation profile of advanced GPUs, the structure accelerates principal recovery, with roughly 80% of capital returned by the end of year three and no reliance on residual value to fully achieve contractual returns.

- Landbanking

During the quarter, we continued to deploy capital into a residential land investment supporting US homebuilders. The team began investing in this sub-pillar in the third quarter and has deployed $600 million as of the end of Q4. Our focus is on financing the purchase and development of fully entitled land, which is then sold to builders over time as finished lots. Builders make an upfront, non-refundable deposit and pay monthly option fees, providing current income, while periodic lot sales return capital gradually as homes are built. Risk protection comes from direct ownership of the underlying land, contractual cash flows, and the ability to slow deployment or pursue alternative exits if market conditions change. With short to medium project timelines and capital returned progressively, the investment reflects our focus on conservative structures that pair contractual income with hard assets in a core housing segment.

What Clients Are Asking

- AI Infrastructure

Clients continue to ask how we are approaching AI infrastructure amid the rapid pace of investment and market attention. Our starting point is scale. We believe the build-out of data centers, compute, power, and related infrastructure is now one of the largest capital investment cycles in decades, with projected spending at $5 trillion over the next five years[6]. What began as a largely self-funded capex effort by a handful of hyperscalers has evolved into a market-wide financing event, with debt playing an increasingly central role across public and private credit markets. Debate around whether this pace of investment proves durable or excessive is likely to persist, but the magnitude of capital required is no longer in dispute (Exhibit 1).

Exhibit 1: Hyperscaler Capex Has Exploded Since 2023, with More Growth Ahead[7]

Capex Has Nearly Tripled Since 2023...

... and Projections Increase in the Coming Years

This shift can create a meaningful opportunity for asset-backed finance. The capital required to support AI infrastructure increasingly exceeds the capacity or flexibility of traditional lenders and public markets, particularly at the asset and project level. As a result, structured, private financings have become a critical part of how AI infrastructure is funded—often outside public issuance statistics, but no less impactful for credit markets. In this environment, ABF is well positioned to provide capital against essential infrastructure assets, where underwriting is anchored in contracted cash flows, asset quality, and structural protections rather than long-term equity growth assumptions.

As capital intensity rises, access to financing—rather than innovation alone—is emerging as a key constraint on how quickly AI ambitions can be realized. Our focus is deliberately credit-oriented. AI infrastructure assets are capital intensive and subject to rapid technology obsolescence cycles, particularly for compute and cooling equipment, which can turn over far more quickly than typical financing tenors. We therefore emphasize structures that align asset lives with amortization, allocate refresh and upgrade risk appropriately, and limit reliance on single-tenant or long-dated assumptions. Power availability, interim generation, and execution risk are also central underwriting considerations as the pace of development accelerates.

Across these investments, our guiding principle is to separate the long-term equity story from the credit opportunity. We focus on financing mission-critical assets with identifiable residual value, contractual cash flows, and structural protections, rather than underwriting technology outcomes or adoption curves.

- Overcrowding of the ABF Market

We are often asked whether asset-backed finance has become crowded as capital flows into the space.

ABF has entered a phase of broad institutional adoption, driven by rising global funding needs and a continued shift away from traditional corporate lending toward asset-level financing. Much of the growth reflects an expansion of the addressable market rather than simple capital convergence, as ABF is increasingly used to finance a wider range of assets—from consumer receivables and equipment to real estate and large-scale infrastructure.

While competition has increased, it is most apparent in simpler, more standardized structures. Opportunities that require deep origination capabilities, asset-specific expertise, and bespoke structuring remain more differentiated. In this environment, scale, experience, and underwriting discipline matter. We believe Apollo's long-standing presence across asset-backed markets, combined with proprietary origination and structuring capabilities, positions the platform to remain selective as the market continues to grow in both size and complexity.

- Fed Cuts

We have also been asked recently about how potential rate cuts may affect the Fund's strategy and positioning.

While public discussion often focuses on the timing of further policy moves, the broader consensus remains that rates are likely to stay higher for longer. Even after the cuts delivered in 2025, policy rates remain in the 3.5%–3.75% range, with economists generally expecting only two additional cuts in 2026. From a portfolio perspective, the Fund's floating-rate exposure is fully hedged, limiting sensitivity to near-term rate movements.

The policy outlook has also been shaped by political developments, including President Donald Trump's decision to nominate Kevin Warsh to replace Jerome Powell as Federal Reserve Chair. While Warsh has expressed alignment with the administration's views on monetary policy and has advocated for significant changes at the Fed—including a smaller balance sheet and a rethinking of inflation frameworks and forecasting models—the implications for the future path of rates remain open for debate.

Over time, a decline in base rates would be expected to lower financing costs across asset-backed markets, improving structural efficiency and expanding the set of opportunities that can be financed on attractive terms. Regardless of the rate path, our approach remains focused on asset fundamentals and structural protections rather than on forecasting interest rate outcomes.

Outlook

We enter 2026 excited about the year ahead. The macro backdrop—declining rates, solid economic growth, fiscal stimulus—has become more favorable for risk assets, with AI-related investment expected to provide an additional tailwind to growth in the coming year.

We also expect the policy outlook will influence the market environment in 2026. The US economic headline resilience has masked a notable divergence in macro conditions between low- and high-income consumers, contributing to the so-called K-shaped economy. That imbalance is now driving policy. As the 2026 midterms approach, President Trump has signaled a willingness to intervene more directly in sectors that impact affordability. Since the start of the year, those signals have taken concrete form across multiple fronts, including proposals to restrict institutional ownership of single-family homes, direct up to $200 billion of purchases in mortgage-backed securities to push mortgage rates lower, impose a one-year 10% cap on credit card interest rates, and limit the pass-through of utility inflation tied to rising power demand from AI data centers. Whether fully implemented or not, we believe the direction is clear: reduce pressure on household balance sheets and lower the all-in cost of living for consumers. Against this backdrop, we increasingly more opportunities in the following three areas.

- The US Housing Market

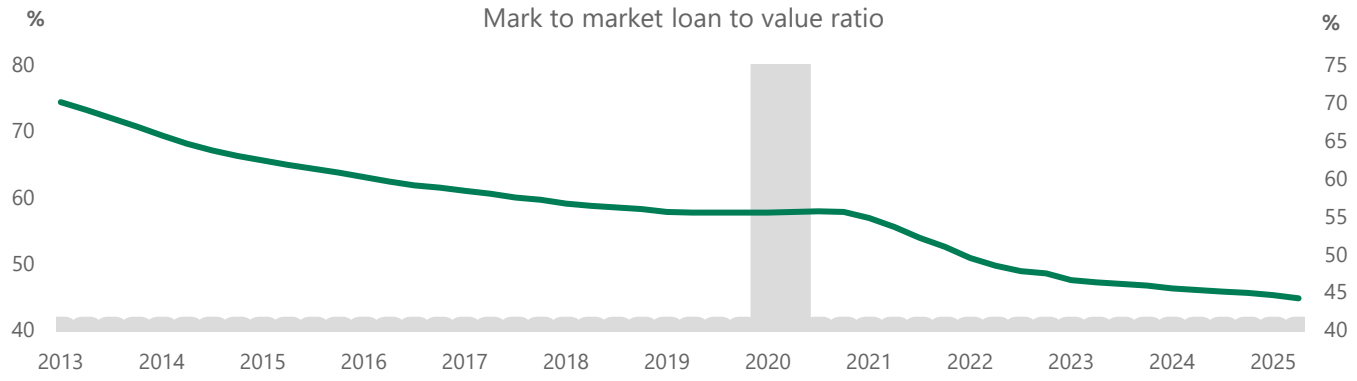

Concerns about the US housing market have persisted over the past several years, driven by higher mortgage rates and affordability pressures. We believed then, and continue to believe now, that the underlying health of the housing market remains strong. Residential mortgage performance has held up well, supported by conservative underwriting, strong borrower credit profiles, and substantial home equity. Where stress has emerged, it has been largely confined to higher-risk segments, rather than signaling broad-based deterioration.

From a fundamental standpoint, housing supply remains tight. While higher rates have cooled price appreciation in some regions, demand has remained resilient as inventory levels are still historically low, particularly in markets with strong employment and population growth. At the same time, low loan-to-value ratios across the mortgage market provide meaningful equity buffers, helping limit loss severity and supporting the stability of asset-backed structures even during periods of volatility (Exhibit 2).

Exhibit 2: Low Loan-to-Value Ratios for US Mortgages[8]

Looking ahead, we believe housing demand is supported by powerful structural forces. A large cohort of the US population is entering prime household-formation years (Exhibit 3), creating sustained demand for both ownership and rental housing. Years of underbuilding—exacerbated by higher financing costs and regulatory constraints—have left the US with a significant housing shortfall, widely estimated in the millions of homes (Exhibit 4). We believe addressing this gap will require sustained investment across the housing value chain.

Exhibit 4: Total Housing Inventory Per Person is Very Low[10]

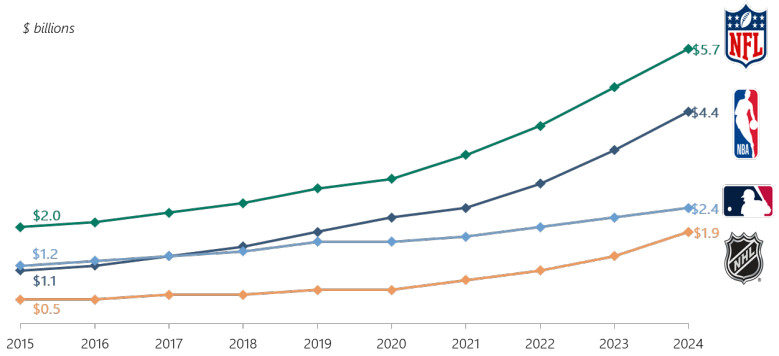

Policy dynamics are becoming more constructive. The Trump Administration's efforts to expand housing supply, lower mortgage rates, and ease financing conditions are improving the backdrop for housing-related activity at a time when affordability remains stretched and inventory constrained. In this environment, we believe housing represents a compelling opportunity for asset-backed finance, not only in the US but globally. The opportunity spans land development, construction, single-family and multifamily housing, and rental assets, areas where capital can be deployed against real assets with durable demand, identifiable cash flows, and a growing need for flexible, asset-backed financing solutions.

- The Financing Gap in Sports

The global sports industry has grown into an estimated $2.5 trillion ecosystem spanning media rights, live entertainment, merchandising, and related consumer activity. Live sports remain uniquely positioned within this landscape, supported by long-term, inflation-linked media contracts that generate durable and predictable cash flows. As franchise valuations have outgrown the capacity of individual owners leagues have increasingly opened the door to institutional capital, accelerating the transition of sports into an institutional asset class (Exhibit 5).

From an asset-backed finance perspective, the sector remains underpenetrated by traditional credit. Most franchises operate with low leverage, often around 10% loan-to-value. This imbalance is a result of several factors including league-level debt restrictions, conservative ownership cultures, and a legacy of equity-led financing that have led to over-equitized balance sheets. This has created a financing gap where tailored private credit solutions can provide liquidity, optimize capital structures, and fund growth initiatives. For ABF, we believe these characteristics—long-duration revenue streams (anchored in media contracts), strong asset coverage, and limited refinancing risk—align well with disciplined underwriting and structured downside protection. You can read more about this opportunity in our recent white paper The Financing Gap in Sports: Unlocking a $2.5 Trillion Opportunity.

- Power as an Entry Point to AI Financing

As AI-driven data center development accelerates, the primary constraint is increasingly power, not compute. Reliable electricity has become a critical bottleneck, elevating power generation from a supporting input to a core piece of AI infrastructure. We believe this shift can create a compelling opportunity for asset-backed finance, as operators are willing to pay for certainty of supply and power assets generate essential, contract-backed cash flows.

Financing power infrastructure—particularly distributed and backup generation—offers strong downside protection through hard assets and durable revenue streams. These assets are mission-critical to data center operations and benefit from sustained demand as power requirements continue to rise.

One example is the growing demand for industrial equipment such as generator sets and turbines that support on-site and supplemental power generation. For large manufacturers, financing every customer purchase on balance sheet can create capital and concentration constraints as order volumes grow. This creates an opportunity for an ABF partner to provide structured financing, allowing projects to move forward while enabling manufacturers to focus on production and service rather than balance-sheet deployment.

In these type of partnerships, we believe ABF is well-positioned to provide capital secured by essential equipment with identifiable value and predictable cash flows, offering the potential for attractive risk-adjusted returns and embedded growth tied to both AI adoption and the broader energy transition.

Against a dynamic but manageable market environment, we believe the portfolio is positioned with resilience and flexibility. We remain committed to a consistent, long-term approach centered on disciplined underwriting and careful stewardship of capital. Thank you for your interest and partnership.

About the Fund

The Apollo Asset-Backed Finance Fund ("ABF" or the "Fund") seeks to provide investors with a dedicated asset-backed finance offering in a semi-liquid and fully funded format. The Fund aims to generate consistent portfolio returns for investors across all economic cycles by investing in global asset-backed finance opportunities of various asset types, vintages, maturities, and capital structure priorities. The Fund seeks to identify investments in what Apollo believes are high-quality asset-backed products, focusing on large, diversified pools of hard assets and/or contracted cashflows, further enhanced by equity investments in Apollo origination platforms and targeting an overall net return of 10-14%[10] with low correlation to traditional asset classes.

The Fund seeks to enhance portfolio construction using asset-level analysis and leveraging the Apollo platform's structuring expertise. ABF invests across six key pillars: (1) consumer finance, (2) residential mortgage, (3) commercial mortgage, (4) hard assets, (5) financial assets and (6) capital solutions. The Fund maintains no bias to any of the six pillars and the objective of the Fund is to pursue what Apollo believes will be the highest risk/reward opportunities pursuant to a relative value framework.

7) Market Value is inclusive of cash and accrued interest. Please note that as of December 31, 2025, the ABF Fund is ramping investments and expects % of Market Value for individual positions to decrease in the near-term. Some totals may not sum due to rounding. Subject to change at any time without notice. There is no guarantee that similar allocations or investments will be available in the future.
8) The net return is the return after the deduction of all fees and expenses on an estimate basis and is subject to change. Fees represented above are indicative of a limited partner who is charged for a 1% (per annum) management fee and a 12.5% incentive fee with a soft hurdle of SOFR+3% (subject to a floor of 5% and a cap of 7%). Fees and expenses include, but are not limited to, operating expenses, organizational fees, other expenses, management fees, and incentive fees. Past performance is not indicative nor a guarantee of future results.
9) ABF Main Fund terms are summarized and not complete. Please refer to the PPM for complete description of terms.
10) The Fund targets a net average annualized return of 10-14% based on the targeted gross returns of the underlying asset classes in which the Fund is expected to invest, along with the impact of management fees, carried interest, and Fund-level expenses. The Fund's target net return assumes annualized gross returns ranging from approximately 6% to 18% across public and private credit as well as private direct investments. This range is based upon underwriting criteria historically used by Apollo when evaluating potential investments in such asset classes. The Fund's target net return also assumes management fees ranging from approximately 0.70% to 1.00%, carried interest of approximately 10% based on the blended carried interest charged across all of the Fund's underlying investments, and assumed Fund-level expenses of approximately 0.25-0.30%.
11) Spread over the weighted average of the base/swap rates corresponding to the tenors of the underlying securities in the portfolio.

Risk Factors

Risks	Rewards
Potential loss of investment: Speculative investment with substantial risk, including loss of capital.	Potential for enhanced returns versus traditional investments, due to higher risk profile.
Performance: Performance can be volatile; past results do not guarantee future outcomes.	Access to unique strategies and asset classes not typically available to retail investors.
Market volatility: Returns can be adversely affected by difficult market/economic conditions.	Potential to benefit from positive macroeconomic and market trends.
Currency risk: Exchange rate fluctuations may impact investment value.	Opportunity for global diversification and foreign currency gains.
Private equity / credit risk: Investments in non-public companies are unpredictable and risky.	Access to private markets with potential for outsized returns and value creation.
Regulatory scrutiny on sustainability: Increasing legislation / regulatory scrutiny on sustainability-related policies, practices, communications, and reporting may add costs and/or create additional risks, such as limiting access to capital or hindering growth, reducing profitability.	Sustainability-related policies, practices, communications, and reporting may preserve the value of investments, improve access to financing, optimize exits, and attract capital.
Fees and expenses: Apply regardless of returns, potentially reducing net gains.	Professional management and administration of investments.
Limited liquidity: Shares/interests may be illiquid or only partially liquid, subject to transfer restrictions, notice periods, and no secondary public market for sales.	Long-term investment horizon may capture value over extended holding periods.

Prospective investors should be aware that an investment in alternatives entails substantial risks, including but not limited to those listed above. Prospective investors should carefully read the applicable Offering Materials for complete information on the risks of investing in the Product. Prior to investing, prospective investors should consult with their own legal, tax, accounting, or other advisors.

Underwritten returns are hypothetical and do not reflect actual returns to any Firm client or investor. Underwritten returns are based upon certain assumptions and the best judgment of the Firm at the time of Investment Committee approval. Such assumptions are subject to change. It can be expected that some or all of such assumptions will not materialize or that actual facts will differ materially from such assumptions. Any change or inaccuracy in the assumptions may have a material impact on actual results, and it should not be assumed that any underwritten returns shown herein will be achieved. Hypothetical returns have inherent limitations and prospective investors should not rely on any hypothetical performance shown herein. No representation is made that any fund or investor will or is likely to achieve the results shown. Actual results will differ and may be materially lower than the returns shown.

Recipients of this presentation (and their representatives) may disclose to any and all persons, without limitation of any kind, (i) the tax treatment and tax structure of the private investment funds discussed herein and (the "Fund" or "Funds") (ii) any of their transactions and all materials of any kind (including opinions and other tax analyses) relating to such tax treatment and tax structure. This presentation does not constitute an offer to sell or the solicitation of an offer to buy, any security, product or service, including interests in the Funds. Offers for interests in the Funds can be made only by each Fund's Confidential Private Placement Memorandum (the "PPM") or Prospectus (collectively, the "Offering Materials"), which will contain additional information about the applicable Fund and in compliance with applicable law. Prospective investors must read the applicable Offering Materials which will contain additional information about an investment in the relevant Fund. Distribution may be restricted in certain jurisdictions.

Notwithstanding the forgoing, nothing herein is intended to impede an individual from communicating directly with the US Securities and Exchange Commission or other regulatory agency about a possible securities law violation.

Unless otherwise noted, information included herein is presented as of the dates indicated.

Information may differ from the terms and provisions respecting an investment in the Funds which will be more fully set forth in the Offering Materials and the applicable corresponding limited partnership agreements or such other applicable constituent governing documentation of the Funds.

This presentation is not complete and the information contained herein may change at any time without notice. Apollo does not have any responsibility to update the presentation to account for such changes.

Apollo has not made any representation or warranty, expressed or implied, with respect to fairness, correctness, accuracy, reasonableness or completeness of any of the information contained herein (including but not limited to information obtained from third parties unrelated to Apollo) and they expressly disclaim any responsibility or liability therefore. The information contained herein is not intended to provide and should not be relied upon for, accounting, legal or tax advice or investment recommendations. Investors should make an independent investigation of the investment described herein, including consulting their tax, legal, accounting or other advisors, about the matters discussed herein.

Information contained herein may include information respecting prior investment performance of one or more Funds or investments. Information respecting prior performance, while a useful tool in evaluating each Fund's investment activities, is not necessarily indicative of actual results that may be achieved for unrealized investments. The realization of such performance is dependent upon many factors, many of which are beyond the control of Apollo. Further, there can be no assurance that the indicated valuations for unrealized investments accurately reflect the amounts for which the subject investments could be sold.

Investing in a Fund is speculative and involves a substantial degree of risk. Risks include, but are not limited to, the fact that each of the Funds has or may have: a limited or no operating history; volatile performance; leverage use; limited liquidity with no secondary market expected and restrictions on transferring interests; high fees and expenses; and a dependence on Apollo, which will have exclusive authority to select and manage a Fund's investments. Prospective investors should carefully consider all risks described in the applicable Offering Materials in determining whether an investment in a Fund is suitable. There can be no assurance that the investment objectives described herein will be achieved. Nothing herein is intended to imply that a Fund's investment methodology may be considered "conservative," "safe," "risk free," or "risk averse". Economic, market and other conditions could also cause a Fund to alter its investment objectives, guidelines and restrictions. Investment losses may occur.

Past performance is not indicative nor a guarantee of future returns. References to downside protection are not guarantees against loss of investment capital or value.

Target returns are presented solely for the purpose of providing insight into the Fund's investment objectives, detailing the Fund's anticipated risk and reward characteristics in order to facilitate comparisons with other investments and for establishing a benchmark for future evaluation of the Fund's performance. The target returns presented are not a prediction, projection or guarantee of future performance. The targeted returns are based upon estimates and assumptions that a potential investment will yield a return equal or greater than the target. There can be no assurance that Apollo's targets will be realized or that Apollo will be successful in finding investment opportunities that meet these anticipated return parameters. Apollo's target of potential return from a potential investment is not a guarantee as to the quality of the investment or a representation as to the adequacy of Apollo's methodology for estimating returns. Accordingly, the Fund's target return should not be used as a primary basis for an investor's decision to invest in the Fund.

Hypothetical or simulated performance results have certain inherent limitations. Unlike an actual performance record, simulated results do not represent actual investment results. Also, since the performance presented does not represent an actual investment portfolio, the results may have under- or over-compensated for the impact, if any, of certain market factors, such as lack of liquidity or market disruptions. Hypothetical or simulated performance results set forth herein are based on a number of assumptions (not all of which are described herein) which may or may not be accurate, and therefore actual returns may be substantially less than those illustrated. No representation is being made by the inclusion of any hypothetical or simulated illustration presented herein that the returns for any Apollo Fund will achieve similar results. Simulated investment programs in general are also subject to the fact that they are designed with the benefit of hindsight.

Certain information contained herein may be "forward-looking" in nature. Due to various risks and uncertainties, actual events or results or the actual performance of a Fund may differ materially from those reflected or contemplated in such forward-looking information. As such, undue reliance should not be placed on such information. Forward-looking statements may be identified by the use of terminology including, but not limited to, "may," "will," "should," "expect," "anticipate," "target," "project," "estimate," "intend," "continue" or "believe" or the negatives thereof or other variations thereon or comparable terminology.

SECURITIES LEGISLATION IN CERTAIN OF THE PROVINCES OF CANADA PROVIDES PURCHASERS OR REQUIRES PURCHASERS OF SECURITIES PURSUANT TO AN OFFERING MEMORANDUM TO BE PROVIDED WITH A REMEDY FOR RESCISSION OR DAMAGES, OR BOTH, WHERE AN OFFERING MEMORANDUM AND ANY AMENDMENT THERETO CONTAINS A MISREPRESENTATION AS DEFINED IN APPLICABLE SECURITIES LEGISLATION. GENERALLY, "MISREPRESENTATION" MEANS AN UNTRUE STATEMENT OF A MATERIAL FACT OR AN OMISSION TO STATE A MATERIAL FACT THAT IS REQUIRED TO BE STATED OR THAT IS NECESSARY TO MAKE A STATEMENT NOT MISLEADING IN LIGHT OF THE CIRCUMSTANCES IN WHICH IT WAS MADE. THESE REMEDIES, OR NOTICE WITH RESPECT THERETO, MUST BE EXERCISED, OR DELIVERED, AS THE CASE MAY BE, BY THE PURCHASER WITHIN THE TIME LIMIT PRESCRIBED BY THE APPLICABLE SECURITIES LEGISLATION AND ARE SUBJECT TO LIMITATIONS AND RESTRICTIONS UNDER APPLICABLE SECURITIES LEGISLATION. EACH PURCHASER SHOULD REFER TO PROVISIONS OF THE APPLICABLE SECURITIES LEGISLATION FOR THE PARTICULARS OF THESE RIGHTS OR CONSULT WITH A LEGAL ADVISOR.

RIGHTS FOR PURCHASERS IN ONTARIO

SECURITIES LEGISLATION IN ONTARIO PROVIDES, IN RELEVANT PART, THAT IF THE PRIVATE PLACEMENT MEMORANDUM, TOGETHER WITH ANY AMENDMENT THERETO, IS DELIVERED TO A PURCHASER OF INTERESTS RESIDENT IN ONTARIO BEFORE THE ISSUE OF SUCH INTERESTS TO SUCH PURCHASER AND CONTAINS A MISREPRESENTATION, SUCH PURCHASER WHO PURCHASES THE INTERESTS PURSUANT TO THE MEMORANDUM DURING THE PERIOD OF DISTRIBUTION SHALL BE DEEMED TO HAVE RELIED UPON THE MISREPRESENTATION IF IT WAS A MISREPRESENTATION AT THE TIME OF PURCHASE, AND SHALL, AS HEREINAFTER PROVIDED, HAVE A RIGHT OF ACTION AGAINST THE FUND FOR DAMAGES OR, ALTERNATIVELY, WHILE STILL THE OWNER OF THE PURCHASED INTERESTS, FOR RESCISSION, PROVIDED THAT NO ACTION SHALL BE COMMENCED TO ENFORCE THESE RIGHTS MORE THAN,

(B) IN THE CASE OF AN ACTION FOR DAMAGES, THE EARLIER OF:

PROVIDED, HOWEVER, AMONG OTHER THINGS:

(A) NO PERSON OR COMPANY WILL BE LIABLE IF IT PROVES THAT THE PURCHASER PURCHASED THE INTERESTS WITH KNOWLEDGE OF THE MISREPRESENTATION,

(B) IN THE CASE OF AN ACTION FOR DAMAGES, THE DEFENDANT WILL NOT BE LIABLE FOR ALL OR ANY PORTION OF THE DAMAGES THAT IT PROVES DO NOT REPRESENT THE DEPRECIATION IN VALUE OF THE INTERESTS AS A RESULT OF THE MISREPRESENTATION RELIED UPON; AND

(C) IN NO CASE WILL THE AMOUNT RECOVERABLE IN ANY ACTION EXCEED THE PRICE AT WHICH THE INTERESTS WERE SOLD TO THE PURCHASER.

THESE RIGHTS ARE NOT AVAILABLE FOR A PURCHASER THAT IS: (A) A CANADIAN FINANCIAL INSTITUTION, MEANING EITHER: (I) AN ASSOCIATION GOVERNED BY THE COOPERATIVE CREDIT ASSOCIATIONS ACT (CANADA) OR A CENTRAL COOPERATIVE CREDIT SOCIETY FOR WHICH AN ORDER HAS BEEN MADE UNDER SECTION 473(1) OF THAT ACT; OR (II) A BANK, LOAN CORPORATION, TRUST COMPANY, TRUST CORPORATION, INSURANCE COMPANY, TREASURY BRANCH, CREDIT UNION, CAISSE POPULAIRE, FINANCIAL SERVICES COOPERATIVE, OR LEAGUE THAT, IN EACH CASE, IS AUTHORIZED BY AN ENACTMENT OF CANADA OR A PROVINCE OR TERRITORY OF CANADA TO CARRY ON BUSINESS IN CANADA OR A PROVINCE OR TERRITORY OF CANADA; (B) A SCHEDULE III BANK, MEANING AN AUTHORIZED FOREIGN BANK NAMED IN SCHEDULE III OF THE BANK ACT (CANADA); (C) THE BUSINESS DEVELOPMENT BANK OF CANADA INCORPORATED UNDER THE BUSINESS DEVELOPMENT BANK OF CANADA ACT (CANADA); OR (D) A SUBSIDIARY OF ANY PERSON REFERRED TO IN CLAUSES (A), (B) OR (C), IF THE PERSON OWNS ALL OF THE VOTING SECURITIES OF THE SUBSIDIARY, EXCEPT THE VOTING SECURITIES REQUIRED BY LAW TO BE OWNED BY DIRECTORS OF THAT SUBSIDIARY.

RIGHTS FOR PURCHASERS OUTSIDE ONTARIO

SECURITIES LEGISLATION IN CERTAIN OTHER PROVINCES OF CANADA ALSO PROVIDES PURCHASERS, OR REQUIRES PURCHASERS TO BE PROVIDED, WITH A REMEDY FOR RESCISSION OR DAMAGES IN THE EVENT THE PRIVATE PLACEMENT MEMORANDUM CONTAINS A MISREPRESENTATION, AS DEFINED IN THE APPLICABLE PROVINCIAL SECURITIES LEGISLATION. ANY RECOURSE TO SUCH REMEDIES, IF AVAILABLE, OR NOTICE WITH RESPECT THERETO, MUST BE EXERCISED, OR DELIVERED, AS THE CASE MAY BE, BY THE PURCHASER WITHIN THE TIME LIMITS PRESCRIBED BY THE APPLICABLE SECURITIES LEGISLATION. ALL PROSPECTIVE CANADIAN PURCHASERS SHOULD REFER TO THE COMPLETE TEXT OF THE RELEVANT STATUTORY PROVISIONS OF THE APPLICABLE SECURITIES LEGISLATION, AND ARE ADVISED TO CONSULT THEIR OWN LEGAL ADVISORS AS TO WHICH, OR WHETHER ANY, OF SUCH RIGHTS OR OTHER RIGHTS MAY BE AVAILABLE TO THEM.
